

Child Maltreatment: New Frontiers in Research & Practice

The impact of early maltreatment on children and adult's later function; trying to improve our understanding of the trauma ecophenotype

Professor Peter Fonagy

Anna Freud National Centre for Children and Families and UCL

Trauma is involved in almost all mental disorder. Understanding the relationship has been one of the great historic challenges of psychotherapy research. To improve the effectiveness our treatment techniques we need to fully understand the mechanisms by which adverse childhood experience leads to poor adult outcome. No one has all the answers, but this talk will present at least one tentative suggestion.

